Sizing the piracy universe

unduplicated visitors to video streaming link sites during a single month. In January 2013, this figure was 112.5m for all video streaming link sites which received more than 50,000 unique visitors during the month. Discounting those visitors who only use such sites to obtain non-infringing or pornographic content during the course of a month (see Section 8) results in a final figure of infringing video streaming users of 112.0m.

- Cyberlockers, including analysis of both cyberlocker link sites frequently used to locate infringing content and cyberlocker hosting sites used to store the content ultimately downloaded by users, and analysis of the amount of bandwidth consumed by infringing cyberlocker use online. The most suitable metric for analysing the size of the infringing video streaming universe was chosen to be unduplicated visitors to cyberlocker host sites during a single month. In January 2013, this figure was 228.8m for all cyberlocker sites which received more than 50,000 unique visitors during the month. Discounting those visitors who only use such sites to obtain non-infringing or pornographic content (see Section 8) results in a final figure of infringing cyberlocker users of 210.6m.

The report also briefly discusses activity on mobile devices such as smartphones and tablets. The main processes by which each ecosystem functions are briefly outlined at the start of each section.
